

DIARY NOTES

25X1A1d

DD/S

25 January 1960

25X1A9a 2. General Cabell declined to sign a proposed letter to the Secretary of the Army requesting that they reconsider the extension of [REDACTED] tour of duty for one year. He said he thought that we should request that they defer his transfer as long as possible but that we should not question the Army's policies in this regard.

25X1A 3. I also discussed with General Cabell the question of travel by our doctors and military representatives of the Mobilization and Military Personnel Division. He felt that we should continue to have a representative of MMPD visit field stations where military personnel are on duty once each year. He thought, however, that travel by doctors could be made a little more infrequent and suggested that to have a doctor visit each station at least every eighteen to twenty-four months would be in order. He did not feel that it was necessary for them to visit places where we knew that there were adequate medical facilities unless there was some particular problem. [REDACTED] would be examples of such travel.

25X1A9a 4. I met with Matt Baird and [REDACTED] of the Office of Training to discuss a senior management training program. I agreed to get in touch with [REDACTED] at Harvard and make an appointment for Charlie to discuss the matter with him. 25X1A

5. I also agreed to make an appointment with General Cabell for Matt Baird and myself to discuss with him our briefings and training at Defense Schools.

6. I also discussed with Matt Baird the question of overtime for JOTs. He explained what these JOTs actually did when they reported to the Clandestine Services for duty while still on OTR's roles and I agreed that after hearing this I did not think that it was inappropriate to allow them overtime in most instances. I told him that I would expect OTR to monitor the activities of each JOT carefully and to insure that this overtime was not abused but that I would not prohibit a JOT from drawing overtime compensation under the circumstances he outlined.

25X1A9a 7. I talked to General Cabell about the anonymous letter which he and I received from a member of the Office of Security several months ago. He felt that our investigation of this matter should be just as thorough as it would have been had the writer actually signed his name. He did not, in fact, feel that our investigation had been adequate and wanted us to reopen the whole matter. I also contacted Lyman Kirkpatrick and requested that he open the question with United States [REDACTED]

25X1A9a 8. I talked to Matt Baird about the transfer of [REDACTED] to the NE Division and told him that I felt we would have to go through with this transfer but that I would try to avoid making it prior to the completion of a one-year tour of duty with the Office of Training.

25X1A9a 9. Matt Baird and [REDACTED] asked me to intercede with the Office of Security to obtain the services of [REDACTED] for duty with the Management Training Staff. I told them that I would be glad to do so.
